The Green Choice Fund
The Green Choice Fund’s purpose is to support innovative and creative ideas that come directly from Fellows and Junior Fellows actively serving as Green Coats. For the past five years, every member of the Committee on Scientific Program contributed. This incredible 100% participation rate inspired past Green Coats and other Fellows to donate as well. We hope you too will consider joining their efforts.

Mothers’ Lounge
ACOG will have two rooms in the convention center on the first and third floors for mothers who are nursing. Breast pumps and individual collection kits will be available for those needing this service.

The Mothers’ Lounge equipment is free of charge to registered attendees. Storage is not permitted.

Friday-Monday: 8:00 AM-5:00 PM

Thank you to Medela for its support.
Welcome to Austin, Texas, and the 66th Annual Clinical and Scientific Meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Get ready for an exciting week; you will experience engaging discussion and knowledge sharing with your colleagues about research and innovation on cutting-edge topics relevant to the practicing ob-gyn.

I’m excited to announce a new fireside chat format for the President’s Program on Friday morning about The New Postpartum Visit: Beginning of Lifelong Health. Our three speakers are Wanda D. Barfield, MD, MPH; Ambassador Nancy G. Brinker; and Mary Walsh, MD. Each will speak for 15 minutes, and I will moderate a 45-minute Q & A session with all three.

ACOG has collaborated with 10 subspecialty societies to develop sessions geared to the specialist in obstetrics and gynecology; each session will review new trends all ob-gyns should know. We have a live telesurgery streamed from Atlanta and Belgium, three surgical tutorials, and the popular film festival demonstrating new surgical techniques. In addition to the education and science, please be sure to attend our special events.

The Welcome Reception will be on Friday evening at the Fairmont Hotel, and the Mix and Mingle Alumni Reception (also held at the Fairmont) will be on Saturday evening, followed by the President’s PAC Party that night at Trinity Hall.

Show your support of adolescent pregnancy prevention by participating in the 5K Walk for Women’s Health on Saturday morning. All proceeds benefit the Healthy Texas Program.

The exhibit hall will be open on Saturday and Sunday, with complimentary lunch for all attendees on Saturday and coffee breaks in the hall on Sunday.

I look forward to seeing you in Austin!

Dr. Haywood L. Brown, MD, FACOG
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

On behalf of the Committee on Scientific Program, we welcome you to ACOG 2018—Medical and Surgical Innovations in Health Care!

We have created an action packed and exciting program for you highlighting over 700 electronic posters, surgery every day, and new educational sessions for all attendees. See a trifecta clinical seminar—when you’re in a room, and there are three different presentations on similar topics occurring at the same time, and you can select the one you prefer to listen to or switch between the three using your headset.

Our debates will continue this year as well as the popular Are You Smarter than a Junior Fellow session. Stump the Professors—or should we say Stump the Presidents will take place on Sunday; this session is when residents present challenging cases to a panel of past ACOG Presidents. We also have Cecile Richards speaking on the History of Planned Parenthood.

The Innovation Rodeo is the hub for all attendees featuring the ACOG Resource Center and Bookstore, a Wellness Center, a Partner Pavilion for all ACOG Partners, and the Education Arcade, where you can learn while having fun! Be sure to visit the rodeo to also meet the 2018 ACOG Hall of Famers, get a professional headshot, or network with colleagues.

ACOG 2018 is the place to re-energize your learning through innovate education; we hope you enjoy the program we put together for you.

Looking for Abstracts?
The May 2018 Supplement to Obstetrics & Gynecology is now available online-only at: greenjournal.org.

Complimentary online access to the Abstract Supplement is made possible through an unrestricted educational grant from AMAG Pharmaceuticals, Inc.
Take part in the ACOG Education Arcade located in the Innovation Rodeo near Registration where learning, gaming, and fun come together!

Thursday 3PM–6PM | Friday 7AM–5PM | Saturday 7AM–5PM | Sunday 7AM–4PM

Test your knowledge with these games and earn up to 1 CME credit per day:

District Challenge

Compete against other districts by answering up to 3 questions each day. Each correct response earns points for the district you represent. The winning district will be announced on the last day. Scores will be updated on a leader board to encourage participation and competition!

Countdown to CREOG

Test your knowledge on questions from 24 of the most missed topics from the CREOG In-Training Examination.

PROLOG GAMES

PROLOG Games is back! Test your knowledge with Hot Streak, Marathon, Beat the Clock, and the Classic Quiz modes. Obstetrics, 8th ed. questions, released in January, are now available in addition to all the questions from the other five PROLOG volumes!

Squares

Remember musical chairs as a child? In this take on the classic game, players move around the room to answer questions correctly. Last person standing wins.

Friday: 10:15am, 11:30am, 12:30pm, 3:15pm
Saturday & Sunday: 10:05am, 11:30am, 12:30pm, 3:15pm

VIRTUAL REALITY

Improve your vaginal hysterectomy technique with these videos that feature interactive hot spots.

WELLNESS HUB

Presentations and demonstrations (including bike riding for smoothies!) to help you feel good while doing good.

NEW THIS YEAR!

Continuing Medical Education

ACCME Accreditation

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG) is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

AMA PRA Category 1 Credits(s)™

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG) designates this live activity for a maximum of 30 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

College Cognate Credit(s)

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG) designates this live activity for a maximum of 30 College Cognate Credits toward the Program for Continuing Professional Development for the Annual Meeting. The College has a reciprocity agreement with the AMA that allows AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™ OR College Cognate Credits. If you are a physician member of the College, you may have your CME credits tracked through the College cognate system (our unique program for documenting continuing professional development). If you are not a physician member of the College, or if you do not want your credits tracked by the College, you will be responsible for reporting the CME credits that you earn at the Annual Meeting.

4th Annual Drs. Camran, Farr, and Ceana Nezhat

Live Telesurgery Forum

LIVE-STREAMING FROM BELGIUM AND ATLANTA, GA

This intensive 3-hour session provides live surgical demonstrations with a panel of experts on site discussing the procedures performed and answering questions from the audience.

The goal is to share the experience and best practices of internationally-renowned surgeons in safe and effective minimally invasive surgery with an emphasis on robotic assistance.

Towards SDG5 – Can We Achieve Gender Equality by 2030 – COL10
The Howard Taylor International Lecture

3:40 PM-4:30 PM

Introduced by J. Kell Williams, MD, Committee on Scientific Program
At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
• Understand data relevant to gender equality.
• Describe the challenges of achieving gender equality.

Lesley Regan, MD, DSc, FRCOG
Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, London, United Kingdom

Ballroom D

DEBATE: Should Every Woman Have Access to a High-Volume Gynecologic Surgeon? – COL11
The John I. Brewer Memorial Lecture

8:10 AM-9:00 AM

Introduced by Jason C. Massengill, MD, Committee on Scientific Program
At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
• Understand the proportion of procedures performed in the US by low- and high-volume gynecologic surgeons.
• Appraise the literature addressing gynecologic surgical volume the types of procedures performed for benign indications and the associated outcomes.
• Develop insight into the implications for both patients and on the specialty if patients are preferentially referred to high volume surgeons.

Magdy P. Milad, MD, MS, Northwestern University, Chicago, IL
Mark G. Lewis, DO, MS, Michigan State University, East Lansing, MI

Ballroom D

DEBATE: Everyone Should VBAC! #NOTSOFAST – COL13
The ABOG Educational Foundation Lectureship on Patient Safety and Quality Improvement

10:25 AM-11:15 AM

Introduced by Constance J. Bohon, MD, Committee on Scientific Program
At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
• Identify factors which have limited the frequency of VBAC in the U.S.
• Identify best candidates for TOLAC in their practice.
• Understand the role of induction in women with prior cesarean delivery.

James M. Palmer, MD, University of South Florida, Tampa, FL
Mark B. Landon, MD, The Ohio State University College of Medicine, Columbus, OH

Ballroom D
History of Planned Parenthood – COL14
The Benson and Pamela Harer Seminar on History

Introduced by Amy E. Young, MD, Committee on Scientific Program

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Discuss the inception of Planned Parenthood.
- Understand the impact of Planned Parenthood.

Cecile Richards
Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Washington, DC
Hall 5

Cesarean Epidemic: Etiologies, Outcomes, and Potential Solutions – CS01

10:15 AM-11:05 AM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Assess the current state of the cesarean rate in the U.S. and related morbidity and mortality.
- Discuss etiologies for the rise in cesareans.
- Incorporate approaches to reduce the cesarean rate in their own practice and health system.

Presenters:
- Aaron B. Caughey, MD, PhD
- Oregon Health & Science University, Portland, OR

Room: 12AB

---

No, You Don't Need to Pump and Dump: Helping Patients Navigate Breastfeeding Misinformation/Myths – CS02

10:15 AM-11:05 AM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Describe the basics of breastfeeding physiology that will provide a foundation to help dispel common breastfeeding myths.
- Serve as consultants to their patients and medical colleagues when they are asked questions about medications/contrasts and the need to pump/dump.
- Acquire the skills to give accurate information to breastfeeding moms about how to build and maintain a healthy milk supply.

Presenters:
- Susan Diana Crowe, MD
- Standford University, Stanford, CA

Room: 19AB

---

Gynecologic Surgery in the Morbidly Obese Patient – CS03

10:15 AM-11:05 AM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Discuss commonly experienced challenges faced by surgeons who provide surgical care for morbidly obese complicated gynecologic patients.
- Identify resources and strategies, both individual and organizational, for building an operating room “team.”
- Integrate new surgical techniques and clinical strategies to improve surgical outcomes in obese patients undergoing minimally invasive gyn surgery.

Presenters:
- Douglas N. Brown, MD
- Boston, MA

Room: 17AB

---

Healthcare in Prison: What is the Role of the Ob/Gyn? – CS04

10:15 AM-11:05 AM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Describe the demographics and characteristics of women in U.S. jails and prisons.
- Identify the specific obstetric and gynecologic needs of this vulnerable population.
- Debate the role of healthcare services within the correctional system as a method to address health disparities in women's health.

Presenters:
- Erin Christine Brousseau, MD, MPH
- Providence, RI

Room: 15
Menopausal Hormone Therapy: Are We Ready to Revisit Primary Prevention of CVD? – CS05

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Describe the current status/outcomes of the WHI, Keeps, Elite and other current hormone therapy (HT) and estrogen therapy (ET) trials.
- Understand the tenets of the gap hypothesis and how it applies differentially to cardiovascular disease vs. breast cancer.
- Have a working knowledge of how route of administration could impact the overall risk/benefit ratio for postmenopausal systemic HT or ET.

James A. Simon, MD, CCD, NCMP, IF
George Washington University School of Medicine & Women’s Health and Research Consultants, Washington, DC
Room 18CD

Abortion Legislation in Texas: The Impact on Access, Care, and Post-abortion Contraception – CS06

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand how this legislation has impacted three components of access (workforce, timeliness, affordability) for women seeking abortion.
- Describe how this legislation has affected provision of care to low-income, minority, and rural women as well as use of medication abortion.
- Recognize how legislative restrictions influence post-abortion contraception.

Vinita Goyal, MD, MPH
San Antonio, TX
Room 16A

The Obstetrical Emergency Room: Improved Safety, Patient Satisfaction and Reimbursement – CS08

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Review patient safety initiatives which are enhanced by the Obstetrical Emergency Department.
- Understand staffing requirements of the Obstetric Emergency Department and strategies for appropriate billing which render this model affordable.
- Describe common licensing requirements for designation of an Obstetric Emergency Department and strategies for overcoming potential barriers.

Brigid Kathleen McCue, MD, PhD
San Antonio, TX
Room 18AB

Contemporary Cervical Cancer Screening and Management of Abnormal Cytology and HPV Results – CS09

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Discuss current and possible future roles for HPV testing in screening for cervical cancer.
- Review how the principle of “equal management for equal risk” shapes the ASCCP management algorithms.
- List three risk based colposcopy biopsy strategies based on the 2017 ASCCP Colposcopy Standards.

Alan G. Waxman, MD, MPH
University of New Mexico School of Medicine, Albuquerque, NM
Room 14
Chronic Pelvic Pain & Interstitial Cystitis: Pearls on Diagnosis and Treatment – CS10

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Care for patients with chronic pelvic pain more effectively and efficiently in a busy practice.
- Appreciate flaws in current paradigms for CPP and understand better the prevalence and diagnosis of non-gynecologic causes of chronic pelvic pain.
- Diagnose and treat better interstitial cystitis and other non-gynecologic causes of pain.

Cheryl B. Iglesia, MD
MedStar Washington Hospital Center, Washington, DC
Room 15

Connected Health ‘Improved Methods in Managing OB-GYN Patients through Technology’ – CS11

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand the pressures moving healthcare payment away from fee-for-service and towards at risk products which focus on value.
- Understand how multi-display providers linked through technology will form a new system of care.
- Learn about the specific examples of care delivery that have been deployed in Arkansas.

Curtis L. Lowery, MD
University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences, Little Rock, AR
Room 18CD

Sexual Assault: Safety and Prevention – CS12

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Determine what defense mechanisms really work and those that often fail in preventing a kidnapping or a rape. Including sprays, shocking devices, etc.
- Evaluate the risk factors which make an individual more susceptible to an attack and how to survive a home invasion.
- Learn how pets, alarm systems and panic buttons may save your life.

Randall Brown, MD
Baton Rouge, LA
Room 19AB

Best Practices for Care of Transgender Patients in Your Busy OB-GYN Office – CS13A

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Identify 3 ways to improve their office culture to be welcoming and supportive of transgender patients.
- Recommend appropriate health care screening tests for transgender patients.
- Identify resources to aid in prescribing hormonal treatment and discussing surgical options with patients.

Beth Cronin, MD
Providence Community Health Center/Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University, Providence, RI
Hall 5
Providing Evidence Based Medical Care for Lesbian and Bisexual Patients – CS13B

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Describe the difference between identity and behavior as it pertains to caring for sexual minority.
- Understand the evidence-based medical needs of lesbians and bisexual women.
- Describe steps to create a clinical environment conducive to patient-centered care of lesbian and bisexual women.

Juno Obedin-Maliver, MD, MPH, MAS
University of California, San Francisco, CA

Transgender Health Considerations for the Ob/Gyn – CS13C

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Identify distinctions between gender identity and sexual orientation and the importance of these differences in serving transgender individuals.
- Examine barriers in health care delivery systems.
- Understand and assess solutions to providing services for transgender individuals.

Lauren Abern, MD
Atrius Health, Cambridge, MA

Evidence-Based Cesarean Delivery – CS14

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- List evidence-based techniques for performing cesarean delivery.
- Describe methods to decrease post-cesarean SSI risk, including use of skin preps, use of antibiotics, and skin closure.
- Enable the practicing Ob/Gyn to adapt evidence based techniques to specific clinical circumstances.

Eric Andrew Strand, MD
Washington University/B-JH/SLCH Consortium Program, St. Louis, MO

Adnexal Masses in Pregnancy: Decreasing the Patient’s and Provider’s Anxiety – CS15

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Differentiate masses into benign, likely benign, and ‘suspicious for malignancy’ categories.
- Appropriately select and interpret tumor markers during evaluation of the mass.
- Determine when to select observation, referral or surgery during pregnancy for treatment.

Yovanni Casablanca, MD
Bethesda, MD
Prevention of Surgical Site Infections Following Major Gynecologic Surgery: Presentation of Patient Safety Bundle – CS16

2:00 PM-2:50 PM

| ABO+G | P15 | IIG |

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Identify the modifiable risk factors associated with surgical site infection.
- Employ effective interventions to reduce surgical site infection.
- Create a multidisciplinary team to manage the interventions leading to a reduction in surgical site infection.

David Soper, MD
Charlottesville, VA
Room 18AB

Medical Management of Spontaneous and Elective Abortion – CS17

2:00 PM-2:50 PM

| ABO+G | P15 | IIC |

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Describe epidemiology of elective and spontaneous abortion.
- Provide evidence-based medication management for elective and spontaneous abortion.
- Describe common complications to elective and spontaneous abortion.

Sarah Prager, MD
University of Washington,
Seattle, WA
Room 12AB

Financial Planning for Physicians – CS18

2:00 PM-3:30 PM

Cultural Competency

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand and Utilize Financial Planning Concepts.
- Understand and utilize investment principles.
- Utilize Investments and asset allocation in relation to goals and financial life cycle.

James T. Breeden, MD, MS, CFP
Carson City, NV
Room 19AB

Abnormal Placentation: Strategies for Prevention, Diagnosis, Management – CS19

3:30 PM-4:20 PM

| ABO+G | P15 | IA |

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Identify predisposing factors and radiographic findings associated with abnormal placentaion.
- Organize and arrange antenatal and intrapartum care plans for patients with suspected abnormal placentaion.
- Employ prevention and rescue strategies to reduce maternal morbidity and mortality from hemorrhage that can occur with delivery.

Your Pregnancy Test is Positive: Navigating Pregnancy Options Counseling in a Climate of Complex Adoption Systems and Increasing Abortion Restrictions – CS20

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Identify concrete skills for delivering pregnancy test results and conversations around pregnancy decision making.
- Describe pregnancy options—including parenting, adoption and abortion—in a patient-centered manner.
- Apply useful techniques to create a plan and provide resources for adoption and abortion referrals in their community.

Valerie French, MD, MAS
University of Kansas Medical Center, Kansas City, KS

Chronic/Recurrent Vaginitis: New Research and Treatment Plans That Work – CS21

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Describe the differences between inflammatory and non-inflammatory types of vaginitis.
- Describe an updated understanding of chronic bacterial and fungal vaginitis.
- Employ effective treatment strategies for chronic or recurrent vulvovaginitis.

Chemen Mzima Neal, MD
Indiana University, Bloomington, IN

Art Therapy–for Patients and Providers: A Hands on Workshop – CS22

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Describe how art therapy and the humanities can help create more empathetic and humanistic healers.
- Engage in a hands on art therapy experience.
- Demonstrate the power of this modality to help with provider burnout and increase wellness.

Jeffrey M. Rothenberg, MD, MS
Indianapolis, IN

Work Smarter, not Harder – CS23

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Demonstrate understanding of four elements to improve clinic throughput: panel management; provider matching; least-variance-first appointment; reserve
- Describe four elements to improve hospital operations: forecasting; components of census variation; elective procedure scheduling; prov’d practice var
- Describe how, using an index of standard data elements available in EMRs, system failures leading to sentinel events can be predicted

Susan T. Haas, MD, MSc
Boston, MA
Timothy J. Ward, MS
Boston, MA
4 ‘P’s of Second Stage Labor: Patience, Position, Physiology, Progress – CS24

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Summarize published data related to second stage labor duration and practices that affect delivery outcome.
- Identify 4 second stage labor practices that support intended vaginal birth and improve newborn outcomes.
- Integrate knowledge attained to optimize birth outcomes by implementation of a multidisciplinary second stage labor practice bundle.

Participants:
- Ann Bishop Burke, MD
- Holy Cross Hospital, Silver Spring, MD
- Susan J. Garpiel, RN, MSN, CNS, C-EFM
- Trinity Health, Livonia, MI

Room: 12AB

5-Minute MFM Consult – CS25

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Apply the available medical literature for evidence-based management of commonly encountered maternal and fetal complications in pregnancy.
- Utilize appropriate therapeutic interventions for management of frequently seen pregnancy complications.
- Counsel patients on the appropriate timing of delivery in high-risk pregnancies.

Participants:
- Yasuko Yamamura, MD
- University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN
- Andrea Shields, MD
- Baylor College of Medicine, Houston, TX

Room: 17AB

Management of the Adnexa During Hysterectomy: Current Practice and Recommendations – CS26

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Participants will be able to identify patient level risk factors affecting removal of adnexa.
- Summarize current practices of adnexa management during benign hysterectomy amongst general obstetrican and gynecologists.
- Understand the implications of adnexa management strategies.

Participants:
- Vrunda Bhavsar Desai, MD
- Yale University School of Medicine, New Haven, CT

Room: 18AB

Modern Evaluation of the Endometrium: Has the Standard of Care Changed? – CS27

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Use Transvaginal ultrasound, sonohystergraphy, and office hysteroscopy to evaluate AUB.
- Understand how care has changed because of shortcomings of blind endometrial sampling.
- Recognize the significance of thick endometrium in non bleeding PM women.

Participants:
- Steven R. Goldstein, MD
- New York University School of Medicine, New York, NY

Room: 18CD
Pap Smears, Pelvic Exams and More: Shared Decision-Making in Well Woman’s Care – CS28

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Define Shared Decision-Making, Preference Sensitive Care, and other related concepts.
- Perform Shared Decision-Making skills and communication techniques in everyday practice.

Presenters:
- Brownsyne Tucker, Edmonds, MD, MPH, MS Indiana University School of Medicine, Department of OB/Gyn, Indianapolis, IN

Time: 4:40 PM-5:30 PM
Room: 19AB

---

Intrapartum Management of the Second Twin: A Hands on Approach – CS29

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Convert the existing literature and recommendations into a personal practice protocol.
- Move from one clinical technique to another as the clinical situation changes.
- Improve the participant’s institutional systems for enhanced vaginal twin delivery.

Presenter:
- Julian Robinson, MD Brigham and Women’s Hospital, Boston, MA

Time: 8:00 AM-8:50 AM
Room: 19AB

---

Universal Cervical Length Screening – CS30

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Review the evidence for CL screening for singleton gestations without prior PTB.
- Review the evidence for CL screening for singleton gestations with prior PTB.
- Review the evidence for CL screening for twin gestations.

Presenter:
- Vincenzo Berghella, MD Division of Maternal Fetal Medicine Sidney Kimmel Medical College Thomas Jefferson University, Philadelphia, PA

Time: 8:00 AM-8:50 AM
Room: 12AB

---

Difficult Laparoscopic Hysterectomy: Techniques to Avoid Complications – CS31

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Describe different methods of safe abdominal entry in patients with prior abdominal surgery.
- Utilize knowledge of the retroperitoneal anatomy to safely perform laparoscopic hysterectomy in patients with adhesions, fibroids, and endometriosis.
- Diagnose injury to the bladder and bowel intraoperatively during laparoscopic hysterectomy.

Presenter:
- Austin D. Findley, MD, MSCR Dayton, OH

Time: 8:00 AM-8:50 AM
Room: 17AB

---

The Vaginal Pessary – CS32

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Review indications and contraindications for vaginal pessary use.
- Understand proper selection of pessaries for prolapse and incontinence.
- Learn how to properly perform a pessary fitting, insertion, and removal.

Presenter:
- Teresa Tam, MD, FACS Rush University Medical Center, Chicago, IL

Time: 8:00 AM-8:50 AM
Room: 18AB
Effective Approaches for Delivering Cross-Cultural Care in Obstetrics and Gynecology – CS33

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Discuss the role of race and ethnicity in U.S. health disparities.
- Identify practical approaches to integrate cultural diversity and humility into medical care.
- Understand principles of utilizing cross-cultural skills.

8:00 AM-8:50 AM

Brenda Pereda, MD, MS
University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, NM
Room 18CD

Update in Virtual Reality Technology: Innovations in Medical Education, Simulation, and Beyond – CS34

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Describe the current use of virtual reality technology in medical training and simulation.
- Review the history and development of simulation in medical training.
- Identify the benefits of simulation technology use in medical training as well as the limitations.

8:00 AM-8:50 AM

M Traci Groening, DO
Anthony, NM
Room 16B

Rethinking Postpartum Hemorrhage Management: The Role of Simple Technologies in Expanding Access to PPH Management – CS35

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Discuss the potential role of Shock Index as an alternative to estimated blood loss for identifying and responding to PPH.
- Critically weigh and discuss new evidence and recommendations on technologies such as misoprostol and tranexamic acid in PPH management.
- Describe how a simple, low-cost locally assembled condom uterine balloon tamponade can be used to manage PPH when uterotonic use to stop bleeding.

9:00 AM-9:50 AM

Paul D. Blumenthal, MD, MPH, PSI, SPIRES
Baltimore, MD
Jill Durocher,
Gynuity Health Projects,
New York, NY
Beverly Winikoff,
MD, MPH
Gynuity Health Projects,

Room 18AB

Substance Abuse Management for the Obstetrician – CS36

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Develop a strategy to screen for substance abuse in pregnant patients.
- Understand possible modes of therapy for pregnant patients with opioid and other addictions.
- Know the resources necessary for a successful addictions program.

9:00 AM-9:50 AM

Byron C. Calhoun,
MD, FACS, FASA, MMBA
Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, West Virginia University – Charleston, Charleston, WV
Room 12AB
After Pregnancy: Management of Polycystic Ovary Syndrome in Midlife – Controversies and Strategies – CS37

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
• Distinguish PCOS as an endocrine and metabolic disorder with potential lifelong consequences beyond the reproductive years.
• Formulate an approach to screening for metabolic and chronic disease disorders associated with PCOS during the annual gynecologic physical examination.
• Develop strategies to manage and treat chronic diseases associated with PCOS during the annual gynecologic examination.

Fertility Preservation for the Cancer Patient – CS38

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
• Discuss how normal follicular development and atresia in females are affected by common cancer therapies.
• Discuss fertility sparing treatment options for women at high risk of developing reproductive tract cancers.
• Discuss fertility sparing options for young women with pre-invasive and invasive cervical and endometrial neoplasia.

Implementing Immediate Postpartum LARC in your Clinical Setting – CS39

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
• Understand the hospital systems and teams involved in implementing immediate postpartum LARC programs.
• Use available resources to guide immediate postpartum LARC program startup.
• Create an implementation plan specific to the participant’s own practice setting.

Women's Preventive Services Guidelines Overview – CS40

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
• Identify the steps to develop guidelines for well woman health care across the lifespan.
• Explain the rationale for a collaborative approach in the Women's Preventive Services Initiative.
• Discuss necessary steps to implement universal well woman health care across medical specialties and across health plans.

The Connie and Harry Jonas, MD Clinical Seminar: Timing of Induction of Labor: Myths, Facts, and Misunderstandings – CS41

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
• Understand the tradeoffs between delivery at a given gestational age and expectant management.
• Understand the potential risks/complications of induction of labor.
• Understand the pregnancy risks of changing weeks of gestation at term.
Ovarian Cancer Prevention: Screening Trials, Oral Contraceptives & Opportunistic Salpingectomy – CS42

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Demonstrate the obstacles in early detection of ovarian cancer.
- Realize the limitations of current screening modalities.
- Summarize risk-reduction strategies that have proven effectiveness.

John O. Schorge, MD
Tufts Medical Center, Boston, MA
Room 12AB

Principles and Use of Electrosurgery – CS43

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Review indications and contraindications for vaginal pessary use.
- Explain the difference between insulation failure, capacitive coupling and direct coupling.
- Implement best practices for the safe application of monopolar energy.

Gregory J. Raff, MD
Zionsville, IN
Room 18AB

Updates in Medical and Surgical Management of Obesity – CS44

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Understand the causes, impact, and treatments of obesity.
- Apply new data to management of the obese gravida and gyn patient.
- Demonstrate knowledge of ACOG recommendations for surgery on the obese woman.

Sherry L. Blumenthal, MD, MSEd
Glenside, PA
Room 18CD

Which IUD is Right for Me? Helping Patients Navigate the Landscape of Levonorgestrel IUDs – CS45

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Describe differences in efficacy rates among the four available levonorgestrel IUDs.
- Differentiate bleeding patterns and amenorrhea rates among the four available levonorgestrel IUDs.
- Identify advantages and disadvantages of one type of levonorgestrel IUD over another for his/her patient.

Melissa Joy Chen, MD
Sacramento, CA
Juliana Melo, MD
Sacramento, CA
Room 19AB

Update on Management of Abnormal Placentation – CS46A

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Discuss limitations of the evidence sources for placenta accreta spectrum disorders and the need for individualization of diagnosis and management.
- Review the uncertainties surrounding the prenatal diagnosis of the placenta accreta spectrum disorders.
- Examine the range of treatment options available for management of placenta accreta spectrum disorders and the uncertainty of the optimal alternatives.

Radek Bukowski, MD, PhD
Dell Medical School at the University of Texas Austin, Austin, TX
Hall 5
Anomalies That Should Not Be Missed by Ultrasound – CS46B

NEW! TRIFECTA CLINICAL SEMINAR

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Describe the essential components of first- and second-trimester fetal anatomic evaluation.
- Demonstrate understanding of specific abnormalities that should be identified during routine first- and second-trimester ultrasound imaging.
- List first-trimester findings that should lead to early second trimester ultrasound.

Stephen Chasen, MD
Weill Cornell Medical College, Cornell University, New York, NY
Hall 5

Ultrasound in 2018: What the Specialist Should Know – CS46C

NEW! TRIFECTA CLINICAL SEMINAR

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Detail components of a basic and advanced scan and basic coding.
- Describe how to reduce fetal exposure to potential harmful ultrasound effects.
- List 10 ultrasound findings that should NEVER be missed by the ob/gyn specialist.

Jacques S. Abramowicz, MD
University of Chicago, Chicago, IL
Hall 5

Rural Maternal Safety: Ensuring Safety in Low Birth Volume Facilities – CS47

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Detail the components of safety in low birth volume facilities.
- Discuss the features necessary for rural maternal safety.

Angela Kueck, MD
Austin, TX
Room 12AB

Universal Screening for Substance Use Disorders in Pregnancy: Implementing SBIRT in Your Practice – CS48

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Compare universal screening options for substance use disorders and the components of SBIRT.
- Identify key personnel and relationships necessary for effective SBIRT screening.
- Use motivational interview techniques appropriate for office-based Brief Intervention counseling.

Leslie R. DeMars, MD
Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center, Lebanon, NH
Room 16A

Timothy J. Fisher, MD, MS
Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center, Lebanon, NH
CLINICAL SEMINARS

1:00 PM-1:50 PM

Amanika Kumar, MD
Mayo Clinic, Rochester, MN
Room 18AB

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Identify key components to an ERAS program in gynecologic surgery.
- Understand the personnel required to implement an ERAS program at their institution.
- Become familiar with PDSA and DMAIC quality improvement tools that will help with implementing an ERAS in their institution.

Incidental Findings on Transvaginal Ultrasound: Do We See too Much? – CS50

1:00 PM-1:50 PM

Steven R. Goldstein, MD
New York University School of Medicine, New York, NY
Room 15

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand that transvaginal ultrasound provides a degree of magnification that is ‘sonomicroscopy’.
- Avoid intervention by recognizing many incidentally discovered pelvic findings are clearly benign.
- Understand the significance of thick endometrial echoes in non bleeding postmenopausal women.

Pain, Addiction and Overdose in Women: Lessons from the Opioid Epidemic – CS51

1:00 PM-1:50 PM

Mishka Terplan, MD, MPH, FASAM
VCU Health, Richmond, VA
Room 18CD

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand the historical footing of the current opioid crisis.
- Detail gender differences that inform the current crisis.
- Describe 3 public health strategies for addressing the crisis.

Female Sexual Dysfunction Post Gynecologic Cancer Treatment – CS52A

1:00 PM-1:50 PM

Lauren F. Streicher, MD
Chicago, IL
Hall 5

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Describe the consequences of gynecologic cancer, chemotherapy, and pelvic radiation on sexual health.
- Identify the impact of oncologic hysterectomy on female sexual dysfunction.
- Knowledgeable in the identification and treatment of the sexual consequences of cancer and cancer treatments.

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Discuss the common sexually transmitted infections seen in the post menopause period.
- Discuss the common medical interventions for the treatment of female sexual complaints for the treatment of sexual problems.
- Discuss the emerging treatments such as lasers and radiofrequency devices for the treatment of sexual problems.
- Describe age appropriate sexuality education at different intervals throughout childhood and adolescence.
- Discuss external influences such as media on adolescents’ sexual education.
- Examine available resources that can aid sexuality education.
- Demonstrate an understanding of the factors contributing to health disparities in maternal and fetal outcomes.
- Define medical interventions demonstrated to be effective in reducing health disparities in preterm birth.
- Discuss how models of implementation and improvement science can be applied to preterm birth prevention and identify adaptable interventions.
- Evaluate current screening algorithms and strategies for ovarian cancer in low- and high-risk populations.
- Discuss the proper work-up of adnexal masses in pre- and post-menopausal women and in pregnant patients.
- Understand the proper management of a patient once ovarian cancer is encountered incidentally.
- Review the pathophysiology, characterization, and current research in endometriosis.
- Be comfortable with current evidence based recommendations for the medical management of endometriosis.
- Surgical planning for endometriosis patient goals, expectations, surgical options. Immediate post-operative care, and long-term management concerns.
Do Good, Feel Good: Promoting Physician Fulfillment Throughout Their Career Continuum – CS57

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Create a baseline understanding of current physician satisfaction: What are we teaching and what should we be teaching?
- Establish the power of empathy and the empathic physician: How should we be caring for our learners, ourselves and our patients?
- Develop a strategy for personal and institutional growth in promoting physician satisfaction. How do we support the CLE to promote job satisfaction?

Mark B. Woodland, MS, MD

G Gentle Cesarean Delivery – CS58

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Create a baseline understanding of current physician satisfaction: What are we teaching and what should we be teaching?
- Establish the power of empathy and the empathic physician: How should we be caring for our learners, ourselves and our patients?
- Develop a strategy for personal and institutional growth in promoting physician satisfaction.

Lawrence Leeman, MD, MPH
University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, NM
Room 12AB

Outpatient Laparoscopic Radiofrequency Ablation: A New Treatment Paradigm for Fibroids – CS59

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand what a Gentle or Family Centered cesarean is and identify which women having a cesarean delivery are appropriate candidates.
- Discuss ‘gentle cesarean’ components including delayed cord clamping, immediate skin to skin, and observing delivery through the incision.
- Understand the roles of the obstetric surgeon, baby nurse, anesthesiologist and pediatricians in the initial infant care.

Vanessa Jacoby, MD, MAS
University of CA – San Francisco, CA
Room 18AB

Viral Infections: A (AIDS) to Z (Zika) – CS60

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Describe a variety of infections.
- Discuss the diagnosis and treatment for viral infections.

Denise J. Jamieson, MD MPH
Emory University School of Medicine, Atlanta, GA
Room 16B
Genital HSV Infections—Knowledge Is Power: What You Don’t Know CAN Hurt You – CS61

3:30 PM-4:20 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Discuss the high incidence and prevalence of genital herpes and reasons why the disease is underdiagnosed and often unrecognized.
- State how to differentiate between primary and recurrent genital herpes, including Type 1 and Type 2 HSV, why it matters, and how to counsel patients.
- Prescribe medication to treat symptoms, reduce recurrences, and decrease the likelihood of transmission to uninfected partners.

David L. Gandell, MD
University of Rochester Medical Center, Rochester, NY
Room 17AB

Practice Implications of MACRA – CS62

3:30 PM-4:20 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand historical origins of current U.S. public and private healthcare financing systems.
- Appreciate economic rationale for CMS value-based payment systems.
- Know the potential impact of MACRA-QPP on your practice.

Charles J. Lockwood, MD, MHCM
Morsani College of Medicine, Tampa, FL
Room 15

History and Medical Use of the Vibrator – CS63

3:30 PM-4:20 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand the medical use of the vibrator for the treatment of hysteria during the Victorian Era.
- List current medical diagnosis’ and co-morbidities in which a vibrator is used to treat female sexual dysfunction.
- Understand how to incorporate personal vibrator use in counseling female patients with sexual dysfunction.

Lauren F. Streicher, MD
Chicago, IL
Room 18CD

Quality and Safety in Ambulatory Ob: How to Do it, and How to Get it Right – CS64

4:40 PM-5:30 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Identify appropriate areas for process improvement in their ambulatory patient care offices.
- Familiarize with established process improvement tools, and learn how to use them in QI initiatives.
- Familiarize with tools to test change and evaluate success of improvement projects.

Nicole Smith, MD, MPH
Brigham and Women’s Department of Maternal-Fetal Medicine, Boston, MA
Room 12AB

Advances in the Treatment of Overactive Bladder: What Every Ob/Gyn Needs to Know – CS65

4:40 PM-5:30 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand the proper diagnostic options for overactive bladder.
- Discuss the advancements in treatment options for overactive bladder.
- Delineate the differences between treatment options.

ACOG Hall of Fame

MEET OUR 2018 ALL-STAR FELLOWS

Four ACOG Hall of Fame all-star fellows are recognized each year by ACOG leadership at the annual Clinical and Scientific Meeting for their dedication to obstetrics and gynecology.

The inaugural year for this prestigious award was 2016. ACOG installed a plaque on the second floor at its headquarters in Washington, D.C. that bears all Hall of Fame members’ names.

ACOG is proud to present these members’ names as a way to recognize those who go above and beyond their duties and who have achieved progress for their dedication and expertise in respective specialties.

INNOVATION RODEO
Updates from CDC Contraceptive Guidelines – FL01

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Describe new and updated recommendations from the CDC U.S. Medical Eligibility Criteria and Selective Practices Recommendations.
- Understand the evidence on which the guidelines are based and apply the guidelines to specific clinical scenarios.
- Provide feedback to CDC regarding the current guidelines as well as key topic areas in need of guideline development.

Titilope Oduyebo, MD, MPH
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Atlanta, GA

Contraception and Coercion – FL02

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Discuss goals of contraception.
- History of forced sterilization.
- Current sterilization controversies.
- The purpose and place for LARC.
- Interpersonal violence and conscientious objection.

Brenda Pereda, MD, MS
University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, NM

Neda Bhardwaj, MD, MS
New York, NY

The New Face of HIV Prevention: (Hint: It’s Not Just Condoms Anymore) – FL03

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Describe current HIV epidemiology in the US and its relevance to women’s health.
- Contrast pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP), post-exposure prophylaxis (PEP) and prevention of perinatal transmission.
- Demonstrate knowledge about current US recommendations for PrEP and prevention of perinatal transmission and the role of OBGYNs.

Jean R. Anderson, MD
John Hopkins Medical Institute, Baltimore, MD

An Effective Contemporary Approach to Clinical Female Sexual Medicine – FL04

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Explore the physician’s role in facilitating the crucial link between functional form and sexual function through a special gynecologic approach.
- Examine therapeutic strategies to improve and evolve female arousal and desire.
- Formulate a plan for providing integrative care for the sexuality needs of women during vulnerable life stages and events.

Debra S. Wickman, MD
Phoenix, AZ
Using Apps and Connected Technology to Educate and Engage Your Patients and Improve Their Health Outcomes – FL05

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Objectively evaluate women’s health apps to determine if they have potential value to their practice and their patients.
- Understand the importance of getting/staying connected in medicine’s new rapidly changing digital environment.
- Develop techniques to incorporate mobile apps into their practice and encourage patients to more fully engage with the practice via these apps.

Kaylen Silverberg, MD
Austin, TX
Amy R. Hall, RPh
Flower Mound, TX

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Provide a background of the current literature and recommendations on post-operative pain management.
- Discuss multimodal pain management and how it applies to the gynecologic post-operative patient.
- Discuss implementation of a multimodal pain management at your institution.

Mikio Nihira, MD
University of California Riverside, Riverside, CA

Developing Competencies in Assessment and Treatment of Behavioral Health Conditions in OB/GYN Practice – FL07

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Utilize evidence based screening instruments to identify a variety of behavioral health conditions including mood and substance use disorders.
- Discuss positive screens to foster collaborative decision making including discussing the risk/benefits and alternatives to various treatment options.
- Review the pharmacological management of depression, substance use, and other behavioral health condition including the use of toxicology screens.

John Keats, MD, FACPE, CPE, CPPS
Cigna, Baltimore, MD

University of Massachusetts Medical School, Worcester, MA
Lisa Kay, MSW, MBA
Cigna, Baltimore, MD

Genetics for the Next Generation of Ob-Gyn – FL08

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Discuss genetic testing including carrier screening, 23-chromosome analysis of miscarriage tissue, noninvasive prenatal testing.
- Understand single nucleotide polymorphisms (SNP), comprehensive chromosomal screening (CCS) and next generation sequencing (Next Gen).
- Explain limitations of each test, know when confirming diagnostic testing is indicated, and be able to counsel your patients.

William H. Kutteh, MD, PhD
Vanderbilt University Medical Center, Germantown, TN
Paul R. Brezina, MD
Vanderbilt University Medical Center, Germantown, TN
When a Baby Dies: Parental Grief, and Vicarious Grief and Trauma, and Self Care for Providers – FL09

1:00 PM-1:50 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Define and identify symptoms of secondary traumatic stress (TS)/vicarious trauma (VT).
- List evidence based strategies to cope with TS/VT.
- Devise a self care plan and commit to a practice.

Zachary N. Stowe, MD
Wisconsin Psychiatric Institute and Clinics, Madison, WI
Ballroom EF

The Changing Landscape of Abortion Regulations and Services: What Obstetrician-Gynecologists Need to Know – FL10

2:00 PM-2:50 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Describe key federal and state laws and regulations that affect abortion access and govern abortion practice.
- Explain how restricted access to abortion affects patients and providers.
- List resources for abortion referrals and funding assistance for patients.

Breast and Gynecologic Cancer Genetics: Moving Beyond the BRCA Mutations: What Every Ob-Gyn Should Know in 2018 – FL11

3:30 PM-4:20 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Recognize novel breast/gyn genes and their associated cancer risks and management recommendations.
- Understand the meaning of a variant of uncertain significance and the complexities regarding interpretation.
- Recognize the importance of effective cascade genetic testing and interpretation.

Jennifer Wilbur Scalia, MS
Women & Infants Hospital, Providence, RI
Ballroom EF

Abnormal Uterine Bleeding: Wading Through the Evidence on Treatment Effectiveness – FL12

4:40 PM-5:30 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Describe the definitions of abnormal uterine bleeding (AUB) and the terminologies supported by FIGO and ACOG.
- Critically evaluate medical and surgical therapies for AUB not caused by structural abnormalities or systemic diseases.
- Develop strategies for choosing the best treatment for patients in his/her practice.

Kristen A. Matteson,
MD, MPH
Women & Infants Hospital, Providence, RI
Ballroom EF
Smart Phones, Tablets, and Phablets: Delivering Apps for the OB/GYN – FL13

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Discuss the rationale for Ob-Gyns to use technology.
- Explore the role of handheld devices and apps to increase work productivity and enhance patient care.
- Demo recommended apps and share audience app experience.

Katherine T. Chen, MD, MPH
Mount Sinai Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, New York, NY

Ballroom EF

---

Changing the Landscape of Perinatal Depression: a Population Health Program for Ob-Gyns – FL14

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:
- Communicate prevalence and impact of perinatal depression and understand benefits of systematic depression and bipolar disorder screening.
- Outline a multi-faceted evidence-based sustainable approach to perinatal depression management and identify accessible relevant resources.
- Understand advocacy and policy opportunities for promoting population-based perinatal depression management programs.

Tiffany A. Moore Simas, MD, MPH, MEd
University of Massachusetts Medical School, Worcester, MA

Ballroom EF

American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology (ABOG)
ABOG staff will be at the Rodeo Partner Pavilion to answer any questions regarding Maintenance of Certification and provide direction for candidates regarding the Qualifying and Certifying examination processes.

CREOG
The Council on Resident Education in Obstetrics and Gynecology (CREOG), of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG), is dedicated to the promotion and the maintenance of excellence in residency education in obstetrics and gynecology. Stop by our booth to meet CREOG and CREOG Education Committee member to learn more about the educational resources we offer.

FASD
Stop by our booth in the partner pavilion to learn more about two of ACOG’s advocacy initiatives: Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders (FASD) Prevention Program, and Alliance for Innovation on Maternal Health.

Global Health
Come see your ACOG Global Contributions!
Come look into our programs and see how you can participate in the dynamic work around the world.
ACOG’s Office of Global Women’s Health addresses critical global challenges in health care in low-resource settings to improve women’s health and reduce rates of maternal and newborn mortality and morbidity.

Our interventions and strategies includes:
• Enhancing team-based care, quality improvement and advocacy to improve women’s health care.
• Improving medical education, residency programs and continuing education using standards approved by the Council on Resident Education in Obstetrics and Gynecology (CREOG).
• Sharing the best science and latest evidence-based guidelines on women’s health appropriate to low-resource settings.

免疫化 for Women
The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists has partnered with the American College of Nurse-Midwives to share and promote immunization resources for pregnant women. Stop by to hear the latest updates on maternal immunization and pick up some free resources!

Minimally Invasive Gynecologic Surgery – ST01

1:00 PM–2:30 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Enumerate the advantages of minimally invasive gynecologic surgeries (MIGS).
- Comprehend the impact of FDA safety warning against the use of electromechanical morcellator on MIGS.
- Utilize and Counsel patients regarding various commercially available specimen containment systems approved for electromechanical morcellation.

Transgender Surgery – ST02

3:30 PM–5:00 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Define gender identity disorder.
- Identify practices which address gender nonconforming or transgender population needs.
- Utilize appropriate care strategies: understand preop, post op and referral for gender confirmation care.

Techniques in Hysteroscopic Surgery: Operative Hysteroscopy – ST03

3:30 PM–5:00 PM

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Develop foundational knowledge of operative hysteroscopy in the treatment of endometrial pathology including endometrial polyps, leiomyomas and RPOC.
- Implement learned skills to improve patient safety and outcomes in women treated with operative hysteroscopy.
- Describe the steps necessary to respond to common complications of operative hysteroscopy.

ACOG Resource Center

THURSDAY 3:00 PM–6:00 PM • FRIDAY 7:00 AM–5:00 PM • SATURDAY 7:00 AM–5:00 PM • SUNDAY 7:00 AM–4:00 PM

Don't forget to stop by the ACOG Booth, the one-stop place to obtain information on the many activities of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists!

Staff from various committees and programs will be on hand to provide members with information and answer questions about services and development of guidelines.

ACOG publications and products will be on display and samples of many of the patient education pamphlets will be available.

You will be able to print Practice Bulletins, Committee Opinions and other ACOG guidelines without having to dig through a stack of paper to look for the copy of the relevant guideline in question.

ACOG’s Chief Medical Informatics Officer, Steve Hasley MD FACOG, will be available Saturday, April 28th from 11:30 AM to 1:00 PM and Sunday, April 29th from 3:00 PM to 4:00 PM

Improve your hospital’s quality of care and reduce risk through ACOG’s peer-based Voluntary Review of Quality of Care (VRQC) Program. Learn how you can join the hundreds of other hospitals across the nation who have gained valuable insight from the VRQC experience.

Experience the new ACOG innovation experience at the 2018 Annual Meeting, try a game, print a guideline, ask questions of staff.

You can order a sample copy of Your Pregnancy and Childbirth, Month to Month, Revised Sixth Edition, and it will be shipped directly to the address associated with your registration.

Moving Surgical Procedures from the OR to Your Office – PG301

8:00 AM-11:00 AM

Practice-Based Improvement

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Understand the indications, benefits and techniques for office based gynecologic procedures.
- Understand the financial benefits to the patient, practice and health care system of office based procedures.
- Understand the equipment and office set-up for safely performing office based gynecologic procedures.

Decoding Chronic Pelvic Pain – PG303

8:00 AM-11:00 AM

P.15 IIIIC

At the end of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Formulate a patient-centered differential diagnosis for women with chronic pelvic pain that is based on a multi-organ biopsychosocial assessment.
- Review the clinical implications, medical and behavioral therapies for patients with chronic pelvic pain that is refractory to usual therapies.
- Describe an evidence-based approach to the surgical management and perioperative care of the chronic pain patient.

Techniques for Safe and Efficient Laparoscopic Entry Methods
Rebecca Falik, MD, Highland Hospital, Oakland, CA Stacy Young, MD and Farr Nezhat, MD, FACS

Gynecologists increasingly turn to laparoscopy for numerous procedures. Placement of the initial port is one of the most hazardous maneuvers in laparoscopic surgery, with over 50% of injuries to bowel and major vessels occurring during initial port placement. The risk of entry-related complications has been reported to increase with the number of attempts. While several approaches have been studied, none have emerged as superior in terms of patient safety.

In this video, we describe various methods of laparoscopic entry. Closed entry techniques include the 1) Veress needle, 2) Optiview, 3) Direct Trocar, and 4) LapCap2. The majority of gynecologic laparoscopies are initiated with use of the Veress needle.

The LapCap2 is simple to use and helps to increase the distance from the Veress insertion site and the great vessels. It has the potential of decreasing the number of attempts needed to achieve pneumoperitoneum, thus decreasing the risk of complications and unintentional injury. The LapCap2 can be added to the surgeon’s armamentarium as a device that can be used to assist in safe laparoscopic entry and can be employed to help teach insufflation technique. The most important thing is for the surgeon to be comfortable with the technique he or she is using, and ideally to be adept at various entry techniques. In cases of subumbilical pathology, the left upper quadrant (Palmer’s point) with or without Optiview may be preferred.

FRIDAY • 2:13 PM-2:23 PM

Excision of a Bartholin Gland Cyst
Lisa R. Gabor, MD, Columbia University Medical Center, New York, NY Patricia Mattingly, MD and Jin Hee Kim, MD

The objectives of this video are to review the basic anatomy of the Bartholin gland, to explore common clinical pathologies and management options, and to illustrate an excision of a Bartholin gland cyst.

Bartholin gland cysts account for up to 2% of all outpatient gynecology visits each year and are a common consult for trainees in obstetrics and gynecology. This video reviews the basic anatomy of the Bartholin gland, commonly encountered clinical pathologies and highlights diagnostic considerations. Management options for symptomatic Bartholin cysts are reviewed, including expectant management, conservative treatment options and more definitive surgical interventions. Finally, a case presentation is given of a woman with a recurrent, symptomatic Bartholin gland cyst who failed conservative management and underwent a Bartholin gland cyst excision.

Though excision of a Bartholin gland cyst is a procedure performed infrequently, knowledge of its anatomy and pathophysiology is important for OBGYN trainees and practicing gynecologists.

FRIDAY • 2:23 PM-2:33 PM

Surgical Management of Non-Tubal Ectopic Pregnancies
James K. Robinson, MD, Medstar Georgetown University Hospital/Washington Hospital Center, Washington, DC Whitney Barnes, MD and Nicholas Hazen, MD

To demonstrate minimally invasive surgical techniques that can be employed for management of select non-tubal ectopic pregnancies, specifically cornual, cervical, and cesarean scar pregnancies.

One of the major morbidities associated with non-tubal ectopic pregnancies is hemorrhage. In this video, we demonstrate techniques to safely resect non-tubal ectopic pregnancies through steps to minimize possible blood loss. In the cases of cervical and cesarean scar pregnancies, using a combined approach, the uterine arteries are skeletonized laparoscopically prior to the hysteroscopic resection of the pregnancy. If heavy bleeding is encountered during the resection, the skeletonized arteries can be clamped for improved visualization and subsequent hemostasis.
using hysteroscopic fulguration and cauterization. The concurrent hysteroscopic and laparoscopic technique also allows for decreased risk of perforation associated thermal injury by both direct visualization during resection, and spatial separation from pelvic organs afforded by the pneumoperitonium. In the cornual ectopic, a tourniquet consisting of a one-way slip knot (the Roeder Knot) and laparoscopic injection of dilute vasopressin was used to minimize blood loss. After cornual ectopic resection, hemostasis and closure of the wound is achieved using delayed absorbable barbed suture in a running fashion to close the intramuscular layers and in a baseball stitch fashion to close the serosal layer of the uterus.

The techniques demonstrated already exist within the skill set of most laparoscopically trained gynecological surgeons. Employing these techniques can increase the safety of and operator comfort with definitive management of select non-tubal ectopic pregnancies, while avoiding a lengthy medical course or long post-operative recovery.

FRIDAY • 2:33 PM-2:44 PM

Approach To The Obliterated Cul-De-Sac

Devon Evans, MD, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, Canada
Michael Suen, MD, FRCSC and Sukhbir S. Singh, MD, FRCSC

Deeply infiltrating endometriosis is a common and morbid disease that poses significant challenges. It can be difficult to diagnose pre-operatively and may not respond to medical management. It is complicated even for experienced gynecologic surgeons to completely excise pathology while minimizing the risk of inadvertent injury to adjacent structures. The objective of this video is to provide an overview of the pre-operative care plan and intra-operative surgical approach when facing deeply infiltrating endometriosis with an obliterated cul-de-sac.

Obliteration of the cul-de-sac by deeply infiltrating endometriosis is particularly difficult to address without thorough pre-operative workup and mastery of retroperitoneal anatomy. We review pre-operative considerations for patients suspected to have deeply infiltrating endometriosis, highlight critical anatomy defining the relevant planes of dissection in the obliterated cul-de-sac, and present our five-step approach to the obliterated cul-de-sac which includes optimizing visualization, defining anatomy, developing the pararectal spaces, excising the rectovaginal disease, and confirming integrity of bowel.

This educational video provides an approach to the obliterated cul-de-sac, from preoperative workup to safe excision of a rectovaginal nodule. The authors highlight the importance of thorough preoperative workup to inform surgical planning and also offer a novel anatomic memory aid to facilitate mobilization of the bowel by visualizing the uterosacral ligaments as a horseshoe shape to delineate avascular dissection planes.

FRIDAY • 2:44 PM-2:55 PM

Skills Demonstration Video for the Localization and Removal of Non-palpable Contraceptive Implants

Erica L. Chin, MA, Jhpiego, Johns Hopkins Affiliate, Baltimore, MD
Hans Rekers, MD, Paul D. Blumenthal, MD, MPH, and Mark Hathaway, MD, MPH

Global service delivery for removing non-palpable contraceptive implants, has not kept pace with that for insertion, resulting in multiple referrals, unnecessary surgery, and significant scarring.

This video builds capacity of clinicians providing contraceptive implant services for locating and safely removing a non-palpable implant in an outpatient clinic or low-resource setting.

Non-palpable implants, due to incorrect insertion or migration, are localized with ultrasound guidance using probes commonly found in an obstetrics and gynecology clinic setting, i.e., a three to five megahertz curvilinear probe (also widely available in low-resource settings) or five to thirteen megahertz transvaginal probe. Optimizing the ultrasound image through machine adjustments were key to visualizing the echogenic implant and its acoustic shadow in the transverse plane. After ultrasound localization, effective and efficient removal of the implant is demonstrated with modified vasectomy clamps (2.2 millimeter ringed forceps) through a three to five millimeter incision directly over the middle of the implant (known as the modified-U technique).

Clinicians working in outpatient clinics and/or low-resource settings can utilize these localization and removal techniques to safely and successfully remove non-palpable implants. This will increase clinical capacity and lead to increased access for contraceptive implant services.

Counseling Asymptomatic Pregnant Women after a Possible Exposure to Zika Virus

Bridget Spelke, MD, Women and Infants Hospital of Rhode Island/Brown University, Providence, RI
Jane Sharp, MD and Erica Hardy, MD, MSSc

In July 2017, the CDC updated guidelines on Zika virus testing in pregnancy. Testing continues to be recommended for individuals with symptoms of Zika virus and pregnant women with either ongoing exposure to Zika virus or ultrasound findings consistent with Zika. Reflecting new data on declining prevalence of Zika virus and persistence of serologic evidence of Zika exposure, the CDC no longer recommends routine testing for asymptomatic pregnant women with time-limited exposure to Zika virus.

Providers are encouraged to engage patients with a low pretest probability in a shared decision-making model in which patients and providers decide to test based on patient values, clinical judgment, and a balanced assessment of risks and expected outcomes. This challenging conversation in the setting of uncertainty requires obstetricians to assess Zika exposure risk and provide pretest counseling on the limitations of serologic testing. Risk assessment should determine the presence of symptoms, the duration and type of travel, mitigating prevention measures, and possible exposures prior to pregnancy that may confound testing results. Pretest counseling should review the possibility of cross-reaction with other Flaviviruses, the increased risk of false-positive results in the setting of decreasing prevalence and the possible interpretations of a positive result. Pregnant women with exposed partners should be advised of strategies for Zika prevention, including the use of barrier protection.

The decision to test low risk women for Zika virus should be based on a shared decision-making conversation that assesses exposure risk, provides pretest counseling and acknowledges limited data on Zika in pregnancy.

Uterus Transplantation: Organ Procurement in a Deceased Donor Model

Elliott G. Richards, MD, Cleveland Clinic, Cleveland, OH
Rebecca Flyckt, MD and Andreas Tzakis, MD

Uterine transplantation is an emerging surgical treatment for patients with absolute uterine factor infertility. There are several advantages to a deceased donor model over a live donor model, including eliminating the risk of surgical complications to a living donor, avoidance of ethical issues inherent in live donation, easier access to generous vascular pedicles for anastomosis, and faster procurement time.

In this video, we demonstrate our technique for procurement of the uterus from a deceased donor, an approach which is typically performed in collaboration with other organ procurement teams. We review each step of the deceased donor procurement surgery using live action footage from surgery and detailed illustrations.

Continued practice is essential in preparing for a deceased donor uterine procurement. The process continues to be refined and adapted as new information becomes available towards the goal of safe, efficient, ethical, and effective surgical treatment of absolute uterine factor infertility.

Improving your Outcomes with the Kiwi Vacuum Using a 5 Step Methodology

Ross W. McQuivey, MD, Stanford University School of Medicine and Hospitals, Stanford, CA

The film provides a practical and reproducible methodology for performing vacuum-assisted deliveries. The significant decline of operative vaginal deliveries (including vacuum) has coincided with a concerning rise in the cesarean section rate nationwide. Although many have attributed this to medico-legal concerns, the greatest contributing factor has been the loss of knowledge and skills to teach proper techniques for safe vacuum deliveries. This educational video makes teaching this oft “lost art” a reality.

This film breaks a complicated vacuum-assisted delivery into five manageable, memorable and reproducible steps.

1) Identify the location of the flexion point on the fetal head and determine it’s distance from the posterior fourchette
2) Insert the vacuum device into the vagina and onto the fetal head
3) Maneuver the vacuum cup over the flexion point by referencing the distance to the flexion point determined in Step #1
4) Establish the appropriate vacuum level and exclude maternal tissue
5) With maternal pushing efforts, direct traction in the axis of the pelvis, while providing counter-traction to the cup and fetal scalp with the non-pulling hand.

This educational video is designed to demonstrate the importance of proper vacuum cup application on the fetal head during vacuum-assisted deliveries. In addition, it highlights a simple 5-step methodology that one can utilize to improve their outcomes. The little-known methodology has been shown to decrease the complications of vacuum-assisted deliveries, along with significantly increasing the rate of successful vaginal deliveries. As such, it has the potential to positively impact the cesarean section rate nationwide.

FRIDAY • 4:07 PM-4:18 PM
Laparoscopic Uterosacral Ligament Suspension
Pilar Rainey, DO, University of Illinois College of Medicine Peoria, Peoria, IL
Rayan Elkattah, MD and Pilar Rainey, DO

The objective is to describe the technique of a bilateral laparoscopic uterosacral ligament suspension performed on a 36 y.o G2P2 with dyspareunia. She had a history of endometriosis that was treated with a supracervical hysterectomy and BSO. She had persistent pelvic and cervical pain on pelvic exam. She desired definitive surgical management and thus a laparoscopic trachelectomy with bilateral uterosacral ligament suspension was performed.

This surgical video clip describes the steps of a laparoscopic uterosacral ligament suspension including the following steps:
1) Bilateral transperitoneal relaxing incisions
2) Pararectal space development
3) Vesicovaginal plane development
4) Rectal deviation
5) Suture anchoring of the uterosacral ligament (6 steps for a high uterosacral ligament suspension)
6) Suspension of the vaginal cuff to the uterosacral ligament

Laparoscopic uterosacral ligament suspension can be performed laparoscopically. It requires an in-depth knowledge of pelvic anatomy.

Modifications of this technique include both distal and mid-uterosacral ligament suspension.

How to Conduct a Physical Examination in Patients Presenting with Chronic Pelvic Pain
Georgine Lamvu, MD, MPH, University of Central Florida & Orlando VA Medical Center, Orlando, FL
Julie Knight, PharmD, CPH and Bowdoin Su, MD, MBA
The objective of this video is to provide a review of the relevant pelvic anatomy as well as a structured approach for performing the pelvic physical examination.

Chronic pelvic pain is a significant problem, as approximately 15% of the U.S. population suffers from this condition. Unfortunately for these patients, the broad differential diagnosis and complex pelvic anatomy poses challenges for healthcare providers to make a proper diagnosis. The physical examination is a crucial part of the evaluation for a patient suffering from chronic pelvic pain.

Setting up the initial assessment to make the patient feel comfortable while allowing an open dialogue of what to expect as well as letting the patient know that she is in control of the entire process can provide a more positive outcome. Through this video, we will provide a review of the relevant pelvic anatomy as well as a structured approach for performing the pelvic physical examination.

Pearing Down the Vaginal Hysterectomy
Kathleen E. Cohen, MD, Brown/Women and Infant’s Hospital, Providence, RI
Annetta Madsen, MD and Kyle J. Wohlrab, MD
Surgical simulation is a well-established adjunct to skill acquisition in gynecologic training. Various uterine models have been developed with the goal of improving vaginal hysterectomy skills. However, most of the models have attempted to replicate complex anatomy and therefore require significant expertise, time and money to construct. This limits their generalization and makes them less accessible to busy OBGYN resident learners.

To address the need for a simple, easy-to-construct model, we have designed “Pearing Down the Vaginal Hysterectomy,” a model that focuses on three fundamental aspects of vaginal surgery: clamping, transecting and suture ligating vascular pedicles within a cavity. With these important skills mastered before entering the operating room, the surgical mentor and learner can spend more intraoperative time fine-tuning surgical technique. This video explains how to construct the model and includes step-by-step instructions for learners.

Together, the model and video aim to improve a resident’s intraoperative learning curve. We have found the model helpful in improving residents’ confidence with the fundamental steps of a vaginal hysterectomy. OBGYN residents reported that the model is easy to construct, easy to use, and they are likely to continue using it as a way to practice vaginal surgery skills in the future.

Minimizing the Latrogenic Footprint
Benjamin Beran, MD, Medical College of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, WI
Stephen E. Zimberg, MD and Michael L. Sprague, MD
Our film’s objective is to demonstrate visual cues that may facilitate identification of proper surgical planes for pathology excision and surgical techniques to minimize harm to surrounding healthy tissue. This is accomplished through a stepwise demonstration of surgical techniques using video and illustration.

Visual cues and surgical techniques are demonstrated on surgical videos from a patient undergoing a laparoscopic excision of an ovarian endometrioma and another patient undergoing a robotic-assisted laparoscopic myomectomy.
Maneuvers to successfully complete each surgery are demonstrated including serial rolling of globular pathology, sweeping with gentle wiping to separate pathology from healthy tissue, judicious use of energy, careful millimeter-by-millimeter progression, tissue pushing with instrument spreading, “overcutting” during myomectomy, and traction with counter-traction.

Goals for pathology excision include complete removal and minimizing injury to surrounding healthy tissue. Damage to surrounding tissues may be obvious, but can be quite subtle to those without a trained eye. Tissue damage can affect fertility and other aspects of women’s health through diminished ovarian reserve and myometrial integrity. Knowledge and identification of proper tissue plane separation, especially when complicated by tissue adherence, allows a minimally invasive gynecologic surgeon to efficiently excise pathology while avoiding unintentional trauma to healthy tissue.

Laparoscopic Hysterectomy for Cervical Fibroid: Surgical Tips
Christina Ramirez, MD, Magee-Womens Hospital of UPMC, Pittsburgh, PA
Ted T. M. Lee, MD and Christina Ramirez, MD
Cervical fibroids are rare but may result in bulk symptoms or heavy menstrual bleeding. Laparoscopic hysterectomies can be challenging in patients with cervical fibroids due to anatomical distortion of the uterine vessels and inability to place a uterine manipulator.

In this video, we demonstrate surgical tips to perform a safe laparoscopic hysterectomy in a patient with a large cervical fibroid extending to the pelvic sidewall. Surgical techniques demonstrated include: utilization of a Breisky-Navratil retractor for uterine manipulation and colpotomy guide, ligation of the uterine arteries at their vascular origin via a pararectal space and medial umbilical ligament approach, and utilization of bipolar electrosurgery to complete the colpotomy without a uterine manipulator.

By using these surgical tips, laparoscopic hysterectomy can be performed safely in patients with large cervical fibroids.

FRIDAY • 5:10 PM-5:20 PM
Approaches for Laparoscopic Uterine Artery Identification
Adela Cope, MD, Mayo Clinic, Rochester, MN
Tatnai Burnett, MD and Adela Cope, MD
Identification of the uterine artery during laparoscopic surgery allows the surgeon to secure uterine blood supply by permanent or temporary ligation at the time of any uterine procedure during which significant blood loss is anticipated, such as myomectomy, cornual ectopic pregnancy, or difficult hysterectomy with an enlarged uterus or significant anterior or posterior cul-de-sac adhesions.

The approach utilized for identification of the uterine artery should be tailored to the presenting pathology and planned procedure. Methods of identification include lateral, medial, and cervical approaches. For the lateral approach, the pararectal space is entered lateral to the ovary and the internal iliac artery or ureter is traced in an antegrade fashion to the origin of the uterine artery. Similarly, within the paravesical space the obliterated umbilical artery can be traced in a retrograde fashion to the origin of the uterine artery. In the medial approach, the pararectal space is entered medial to the ovary and the ureter is followed to where it passes beneath the uterine artery. Finally, at the level of the cervix one may identify the uterine artery by anterior or posterior division of the peritoneum directly at the point of typical ligation at the time of hysterectomy. For each approach, identification of surrounding anatomy allows safe ligation without damage to the ureter, bladder or other structures.

Knowledge of each of these approaches allows the surgeon to safely identify and ligate the uterine artery regardless of patient anatomy or pathology.
Pelvic Floor Recall for Residents on Call: An Active Learning Exercise

George Mulheron, PhD, Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, Piscataway, NJ
Anoushka Dua, and Adrian Balica, MD

It is critical that Ob-Gyn residents have strong, foundational knowledge of pelvic anatomy. There is no national curricular review of pelvic anatomy for first-year residents prior to entering procedure-based clinical rotations. We suggest that refreshed knowledge of pelvic anatomy will facilitate improved performance during laceration and episiotomy repair procedures.

We developed an engaging, hands-on pelvic anatomy exercise involving the construction of a clay model of the female pelvis, with video guidance. Piecing together each major anatomical component of the pelvis takes advantage of both visual and tactile learning modalities to promote greater memory retention. This curricular activity has been presented to and executed by a total of three residency programs. Early post-test data demonstrated a 25% increase in subject knowledge.

We present an engaging and easily reproducible model for first year residents to review pelvic anatomy. With early successful outcomes, we hope that this model will provide first year residents with refreshed knowledge and confidence during surgical rotations on the obstetrical floors. By expanding our reach to a greater number of residency programs, we hope to contribute to a standardized model for pelvic anatomy review for Ob-Gyn residents.

The May 2018 supplement to Obstetrics & Gynecology is now available online-only at www.greenjournal.org. Complimentary online access to the Abstract Supplement is made possible by AMAG Pharmaceuticals, Inc. The supplement is comprised of the abstracts of all the presented papers and ePosters at the 66th Annual Clinical and Scientific Meeting of the American College of Obstetrician and Gynecologists.

Electronic posters are available for viewing throughout the meeting. Authors of ePosters will present a brief summary of their posters at the beginning of their time slot then will be available for Q & A during the remainder of the session.

Blue Ribbon abstracts are awarded to those who received the highest ranking.

The May 2018 supplement to Obstetrics & Gynecology is now available online-only at www.greenjournal.org. Complimentary online access to the Abstract Supplement is made possible by AMAG Pharmaceuticals, Inc. The supplement is comprised of the abstracts of all the presented papers and ePosters at the 66th Annual Clinical and Scientific Meeting of the American College of Obstetrician and Gynecologists.

Electronic posters are available for viewing throughout the meeting. Authors of ePosters will present a brief summary of their posters at the beginning of their time slot then will be available for Q & A during the remainder of the session.

Blue Ribbon abstracts are awarded to those who received the highest ranking.

CME Forums provide a new and exciting educational program designated for AMA PRA Category 1 Credit. These informative, CME-approved sessions are intended for health care providers specializing in obstetrics and gynecology to expand their knowledge into practice and improving patient care.

ALL SESSIONS ARE HELD IN THE HILTON AUSTIN.

SATURDAY, APRIL 28

BREAKFAST • 6:15 AM-7:45 AM • SALON J

A 3D View: Risk factors, Ethnicity, and the Role of Medical and Minimally Invasive Therapies in the Management of Uterine Fibroids

This activity is supported by an educational grant from Allergan.

In recent years, there have been a number of advances in elucidating the pathophysiology of fibroids, and a wide range of treatments is now available for fibroids including traditional surgical approaches, pharmacologic agents, and minimally-invasive methods. The goals of this CME program include discussing data on the public health implications of fibroids, reviewing treatment methods for fibroids, and discussing appropriate patient education and communication regarding management options. Through case- and video-based education, our program will aim to provide targeted, practical education for providers who manage fibroids.

DINNER • 6:15 PM-7:45 PM • SALON J

Breaking the Silence: Recognizing and Treating Hypoactive Sexual Desire Disorder

This activity is supported by an educational grant from AMAG Pharmaceuticals, Inc.

This interactive activity will bring you the latest on the diagnosis and management of hypoactive sexual desire disorder. Expert faculty Sharon Parish, MD, and James Simon, MD, will share their experience and guide you on how to start a conversation and improve the quality of life for your patients.

The Future of Reproductive Medicine
EMERGING TECHNOLOGY SESSIONS
MONDAY, APRIL 30

İTALK UNPLUGGED: BUILDING A COMPREHENSIVE NIPT PROGRAM FOR YOUR PATIENTS
Presented by Illumina

MODERATOR: Janice G. Edwards, MS, CGC, Professor and Director of University of South Carolina School of Medicine, Genetic Counseling Program

Janice G. Edwards, MS, CGC Professor and Director of University of South Carolina School of Medicine, Genetic Counseling Program

Victoria Miller, Founder and Executive Director, Trisomy 18 Foundation

Stephanie Meredith, Lettercase Program Director at University of Kentucky

Join physicians, advocacy leaders, and patients for an interactive discussion about utilization of noninvasive prenatal testing (NIPT) for all pregnant women. Whether you have been offering NIPT to all patients, or a select few, this session will give you a better understanding of the capabilities of NIPT. Through expert presentations and panel discussions, we will take an in-depth look at NIPT as it relates to the screening population, results delivery, post-test counseling, and availability of patient education resources.

MEDICAL LIABILITY ISSUES IN PRECISION MEDICINE
Presented by Myriad

Victor Cotton, MD, JD, President, Law and Medicine, Hershey, PA

Douglas Kilpatrick, MD, ACOG President 2008, Denver, CO

Personalized medicine, also often referred to as “precision medicine,” is the result of emerging technologies that allow scientists and physicians to build upon what has long been a focus on a patient’s individual characteristics in diagnosing illness (e.g., the patient’s family history, social history, prior medical history, and presenting symptoms). Join your other ACOG Fellows in gaining key insights into current (and future) medical liability issues surrounding Precision Medicine.

INCORPORATING GENETIC SCREENING INTO CLINICAL PRACTICE:
WHAT DOES THE OBGYN PROVIDER NEED TO KNOW?
Presented by Natera

Learn about the basics of genetic inheritance, genetic screening, and how to counsel your patients for aneuploidy & carrier screening, in 5 minutes (or less) in this fun and interactive session. This session will also cover key genetic innovations on the horizon that will be beneficial to your practice.
Product Theaters are an opportunity for Annual Meeting Exhibitors to interact with attendees in an intimate theater setting. Product Theaters provide an opportunity to gather and discuss issues on patient education and therapeutic areas, demonstrate new and existing products and provide up-to-date research findings.

ALL SESSIONS ARE HELD IN THE HILTON AUSTIN.

FRIDAY, APRIL 27

LUNCH • 12:15 PM-1:00 PM • SALON F
Innovations in the Treatment of BV: A Complete Course of Therapy in a Single Dose

Supported by: Lupin Pharmaceuticals, Inc.
Explore the scope, impact, and unmet needs of bacterial vaginosis (BV). Michael L. Krychman, MD, will examine current theories of BV pathogenesis along with diagnostic criteria and methods; as well as review current and soon to be available US treatments. Dr. Krychman and content are sponsored by Lupin Pharmaceuticals, Inc.

LUNCH • 12:15 PM-1:00 PM • SALON G
The Fibroid Effect: The Impactful Consequences of Uterine Fibroids

Supported by: Allergan
How are uterine fibroids impacting your patients? Learn more by attending Allergan’s Disease State Theater on “The Fibroid Effect: The Impactful Consequences of Uterine Fibroids”.

Speaker: Jessica Shepherd, MD, MBA, OB/GYN and Women’s Health Expert, Minimally Invasive Gynecology, Baylor University Medical Center– Dallas, TX.

RECEPTION • 5:15 PM-6:00 PM • SALON F
Libido Myths: Understanding Hypoactive Sexual Desire Disorder (HSDD)

Supported by: AMAG Pharmaceuticals
This product theater will give attendees the opportunity to: (1) understand the neurobiological and biopsychosocial underpinnings of HSDD; (2) understand the sexual response cycle models; (3) understand the biopsychosocial construct of HSDD in women; and (4) receive insights into the Patient Reported Outcomes (PROs) used to assess sexual function in women.

RECEPTION • 5:15 PM-6:00 PM • SALON G
Cumulative Impact of Endometriosis-Related Pain: A Call to Action

Supported by: AbbVie
Patients with endometriosis-associated pain, including dysmenorrhea, nonmenstrual pelvic pain, and dyspareunia, present challenges for even the most experienced practitioner. Pain may be refractory or recur after treatment. Moreover, patients may suffer from psychosocial issues that further complicate disease recognition and decision-making. Join us to review management strategies, including a discussion about the role of multidisciplinary care, in caring for patients with endometriosis.

SATURDAY, APRIL 28

BREAKFAST • 7:00 AM-7:45 AM • SALON F
Postpartum Depression: Risk Factors, Screening, and Approaches to Clinical Care

Supported by: Sage Therapeutics
Learn more about PPD with a focus on screening and the valuable role obstetricians can play in screening for and treating PPD. This interactive program will cover: current definitions of PPD, screening recommendations, screening tools for PPD, anxiety as a component of PPD, risk factors for PPD, and current treatment options.
SATURDAY, APRIL 28 (continued)

RECEPTION •  5:15 PM-6:00 PM • SALON F
In Office Procedures: Up Your Game
   Supported by: Hologic
Navigating the evolving healthcare landscape can be challenging and nuanced. Office-based procedures are patient-centered, efficient, and can be economically beneficial for your practice. Join us to learn about cutting edge technologies that treat common GYN issues such as abnormal uterine bleeding and painful symptoms of menopause, in the convenience of your office.
   — Neeraj Kohli, MD, MBA

RECEPTION •  5:15 PM-6:00 PM • SALON G
An Innovative Treatment for Moderate to Severe Dyspareunia, a Symptom of Vulvar and Vaginal Atrophy (VVA), Due to Menopause
   Supported by: AMAG Pharmaceuticals
Round out your experience by attending this live seminar. We will review dyspareunia due to menopause and take a closer look at an innovative treatment for moderate to severe dyspareunia, a symptom of VVA, due to menopause.

As of March 28, 2018
We put patients and their families at the center of everything we do.

This belief inspires us and the work we do to support the care and well-being of the patients and families we serve. Every day, we devote our passion, expertise and resources to developing and delivering products that support patients in the areas of maternal and women’s health, anemia management and cancer supportive care.
Thank you to our 2018 ACOG Foundation Donors!

Being sure is what peace of mind is all about.

Our Genius™ 3D Mammography™ exam* detects 20% to 65% more invasive breast cancers than 2D alone. The NovaSure™+ minimally invasive procedure can dramatically reduce or stop heavy menstrual bleeding with one 5-minute procedure. Co-testing with our ThinPrep® Pap test and Aptima® HPV assay (Pap+HPV Together™) helps identify those patients at greatest risk for developing cervical cancer. The MonaLisa Touch® procedure addresses the painful symptoms of menopause, including challenges with intimacy. And our medical aesthetics innovations give women the confidence to do their best.

Visit Hologic booth #8017 at ACOG 2018 to learn more about our commitment to women’s health.

Let’s move women’s health forward. Together.

*I’m Sure.

*The Genius™ 3D Mammography™ exam (a.k.a. Genius™ exam) is acquired on the Hologic® 3D Mammography™ system and consists of a 2D and 3D™ image set, where the 2D image can be either an acquired 2D image or a 2D image generated from the 3D™ image set. The Genius™ exam is only available on the Hologic® 3D Mammography™ System.

SWING ON BY THE
INNOVATION RODEO!

The Innovation Rodeo, near registration, brings educational games, digital activities, and networking opportunities all together in one central location.

A round up of learning and fun, open Thursday–Sunday

THURSDAY 3:00 PM–6:00 PM • FRIDAY 7:00 AM–5:00 PM • SATURDAY 7:00 AM–5:00 PM • SUNDAY 7:00 AM–4:00 PM

- ACOG Resource Center includes the College Bookstore and offers touchscreen technology for ordering your free copy of Your Pregnancy and Childbirth, Month to Month, Revised Sixth Edition.

- Education Arcade includes the popular PROLOG Games, Squares (non-CME), the NEW District Challenge, and CREOG Quizzes. Participants can earn up to 1 CME credit each day.

- Hall of Fame will honor Nancy C. Chescheir, MD; Catherine Yvonne Spong, MD; Baha M. Sibai, MD; and John J. Sciarra, MD, PhD.

- Partner Pavilion highlights ACOG initiatives and digital activities including: FASD, CREOG, WPSI, Global Health, Immunizations, the Green Journal, LARC, and ABOG.

- Virtual Reality stations let you explore vaginal hysterectomy surgery and preoperative and postoperative skills.

- Wellness Center features the Mosaic tile mural, bike rides for smoothies, ergonomics, mind/body presentations, and water bottles for refilling stations throughout the meeting.

- Plus: Career Connection with a headshot studio, ACOG Advocacy Center, and Networking Lounge.
As an obstetrician/gynecologist and officer on the U.S. Army or Army Reserve health care team, you can focus on what is most important to you – treating patients. You’ll work with recognized experts in their specialized fields, be involved with medical research on diseases of OBGYN and military importance, and ensure proper care is provided to Soldiers and their families. You may qualify to receive a sign-on bonus, a full-tuition scholarship with a monthly stipend of more than $2,200, specialized training assistance and education loan repayment.

To learn more about a career in Army medicine, visit Booth #24025 and talk with an Army physician, or go to healthcare.goarmy.com/id69 for more information.
